

Old Mother Hubbard and her New Cupboard

The average child is sensitive to the taste, temperature, texture and color of his food. Too soupy breakfast food, too salt vegetable, too hot potato can spoil a meal for a child who has not the Spartan endurance of a well trained adult.

The child has a right to well-cooked meals every day. It is an injustice to the child and a probable injury to his digestive tract to eat poorly cooked food. Hot cereals, vegetables and all other food materials should be carefully and consistently well prepared. This does not mean, however, catering to pampered tastes, although food should be served attractively. Food "dressed up" seems to taste better to the child who does not have an active appetite. The appearance to his eyes is oftentimes more potent than the taste to his tongue.

Large servings, all on one plate and touching such attractively (fitting to some children) often deter the poor appetite of a child. "I haven't the stomach of a gentleman" justly remonstrated a little five-year old when a too generous dinner plate was served her. Small-

Wade-Renfroe Players Present "Going Crooked"

"Going Crooked," the howling successful Broadway and Chicago comedy, originally presented by John Golden with William Collier, is being presented by the Wade-Renfroe players in Hermosa Beach this week.

The play deals with the feverish search for money of one William Ward, a man about town, who after squandering his inheritance, at least so he thought, got into an auto accident in which his penniless pal was seriously injured. His roommate proposes that he might get the money necessary to pay the doctor's bill and provide for himself by being arrested as the one who had stolen the Lombardy painting. This would enable his friend to get the reward for the arrest of the thief. Ward goes through with his part but a detective sees through the scheme. The painting was in his apartment nevertheless and Ward has the satisfaction of seeing the culprit brought to book.

In it Billy Wade scores the outstanding hit of his career and the play is acclaimed by local audiences as one of the best of the season.

Satin for Dressy Ensembles Wins Widespread Approval

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

PARIS continues to laud "stylish black." Wherefore this combination occupies a foremost position on the spring fete program. Satin, too, is receiving enthusiastic endorsement from fashion leaders. Which leads to an interesting problem in arithmetic, namely satin plus black gives as answer an extremely smart spring ensemble.

Continuing the adding process, satin plus black plus white reaches the sum total of modishness.

Could anyone wish for a more fetching costume for springtime than the ensemble of black with white satin shown in this picture? It is not a bit flapperish but extremely genteel, the sort that makes its wearer look "every inch a lady."

It is no ordinary satin, which has been selected for the developing of this truly patriotic costume. There is an exquisite new satin out, which is reversed with felle instead of the usual crepe back. Modistes and couturiers are quite "am" over this recent fabric find, for it self-trims to the point of perfection. It is this very satin which serves as medium for the beautiful illustration, which accords for its convincing elegance.

The coat, acquires supercharm in that it has a slender Y-shaped inset of the falls at the back extending from the neckline to below the waistline. Corresponding trimmings appear on the collar and on the sleeves at the wristline.

All the newer details of the mode are reflected in the styling of this costume. It answers to the call of smartness in that its coat is exquisitely tailored. The skirt is plaited all around, for fullness is featured in hemlines this season. The moderate applique of the satin of the skirt appearing on its contrasting blouse is also expressive of the latest.

The beauty of this delectable ensemble is that the coat can be used as a separate wrap. Then, too, a skirt of black satin attached to an underbodice is a treasure of possibilities.

Like De Molay? See Mr. Thomas

Chapter with Members in Several Cities

When A. E. Thomas, 1028 Amala avenue was master of the Masonic Lodge at Compton in 1924 he became interested in boys work and the Order of DeMolay was instituted in that city. Though he now lives in Torrance Mr. Thomas has not forgotten DeMolay and still remains exceedingly active with the Compton chapter. Last week he took 90 members of DeMolay for a swim in the Redondo lagoon. At regular intervals he heads the lads on an outing of some kind or arranges a meeting with a "feed."

The Compton chapter of DeMolay is comprised of members from Compton, Downey, Bellflower and Whittier. Boys between the ages of 16 and 21 are eligible, whether their fathers are Masons or not.

According to Mr. Thomas a number of Torrance boys have expressed a desire to join DeMolay and he is planning a Torrance class for the Compton chapter. Any youths who are interested are requested to communicate with him at 1028 Amala avenue or to telephone him at 394-M.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Iman of Arlington avenue, spent the week end with friends in Van Nuys.

SCHOOL NEWS

HIGH SCHOOL.
For the first time, Torrance High School has decided to enter contests in a contest for commercial work. This contest which is held annually including all the public schools of Southern California, will take place on May 5, at the University of Southern California. Among the students who were chosen to represent Torrance High by Miss Jones and Miss Weaver, commercial teachers, are Marjorie Vieths, Olive McKenzie, and Vivian Beckwith from the stenographic department and Dorothy Hanson, Elsie Aitken, Marjorie Yamamoto, Edna and Margaret Richhart from the bookkeeping department. These students are brushing up in their work so that besides gaining individual honors they may bring home the cup which is offered for the school having the best group of representatives, five being the limit for each department from a school.

The 110 Latin students of Torrance High went to Los Angeles High School, to see the play "A Pot of Gold," presented by the students of that school on Friday, April 20. This play is taken from Plautus. It was very interesting.

The faculty of the High School held their bi-monthly meeting in the form of a dinner given at La Venta Inn, near Palms Verdes. After the dinner, the faculty returned to the High School Auditorium, where the student body presented a picture, "Canadian Adventure."

Miss Sherer, sewing teacher at the high school, suffered a bad cold on her hand, and was unable to be in school Tuesday.

Miss Behr, librarian at the high school, was home Tuesday with a severe cold.

Students from the University of Redlands put on a musical program in the High School auditorium today.

Good Fight Card Set for Tonight

A slating program of boxing events will be dished up to fans at the Hawthorne Athletic club tonight. In the main event two 175-pounders will trade taps. Wallace Frauser and Gene Larsen. The semi-windup will find Richie Thomas and Ted Rillian, 111 opposed.

A number of local fans who have attended the Hawthorne shows are enthusiastic over the cards which the club is presenting.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Willacy and son of Los Angeles were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Francisco. Mr. Willacy will go to Catalina this week and will be employed again on the yacht villa.

Mrs. Ella Tonkin of Beacon street has returned from a visit with her sister Mrs. Effie Engel of Los Angeles.
